👤 Profile

A passionate and fast-learner college student who demonstrates strong research and documentation skills through academic articles including the landscape of unequal development in Thailand. Yet having real-hand experiences on problems in education at the local level through previous rural development camp pioneering.

I aim to use my experiences and social science knowledge to land a first job as a business analyst at TIME consulting. The ability to conduct and analyze information on digitalization will support the company in achieving its goals.
